To six pounds of the prepared fruit al ow five pounds sugar, three pints of arge raisins that have been seeded. Clean the ginger root and put in the preserving kettle with one quart water and citron. Cover and put on the back of the stove where the contents will simply steam and simmer for an hour and a half. Meantime make a sirup by putting a pint boiling water with the sugar. Re move the ginger root from the kettle and turn in the hot sirup. Cook half an hour longer, then take out the citron and spread on a platter, letting it stand in the sun or in the warming oven. Add to the sirup the stoned raisins and lemons, cook until a thick sirup, return the citron to the sirup, cook ten min-utes longer, then pack into cans and seal. EMMA PADDOCK TELFORD.

Apple Pandowdy.

Among the old-time dishes that bear revival by the economical housewife is the pandowdy of our grandmothers. To deep baking dish that has been well buttered, with thin slices of buttered bread, letting them take the place of the usual pastry lining. Fill with a thick layer of tart apples, sliced thin, sprinkle with nutmeg and cinnamon and turn over the whole a cupful of maple sirup or brown sugar dissolved in half its amount of hot water. Cover the top with another layer of slices of buttered bread, buttered side down, cover the dish with a plate and bake slowly for an hour and a half in a moderate oven. It should be served hot, inverted on a platter, with a good liquid sauce or cream as desired.

Apple Slump.

Apple slump is another old-fashioned dish, but none the less acceptable on account of its antiquity. Pare, core and minutes, while you prepare a very soft biscuit dough, using for a pint of flour teaspoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a half tablespoonful of shortening and milk to stir to a dough that is too soft to roll. Put this over the apples, which should be tender, but not broken, cover the kettle closely and cook twenty-five minutes without lifting the cover. Serve with a hot sauce, made by beating to a cream a half cup of butter and one cup of sugar, stirring in just before using a scant cupful of boiling milk or water, and season to taste.

Baked Apple Slump.

Take a well buttered deep pudding dish and slice into it enough tart, juicy apples to fill. Season with cinnamon and nutmeg. Sweeten pleatifully, add a tablespoonful of butter cut in little bits, and cover with a soft biscuit dough, stirred tains with rows of lace insertion to a consistency to pour, but not roll. Bake in a hot oven and serve with a hard sauce or foamy as preferred.

Baked Apples With Nuts.

Black walnuts, butternuts or hickory nuts are best for this. For a dozen large lowish brown. By abstracting soil from apples a cupful and a half of nut meats the curtains before placing in the suds will be required, with a tablespoonful of rubbing and fewer baths will be necessary sugar allowed for each apple. EFFECTIVELY TRIMMED.

A chic little tailored suit of taupe cloth and velvet is shown in the sketch. This shows one of the latest fads in the effective use of tiny buttons. There is a huge sailor collar of velvet and a supplementary one of venetian lace, which is also used in a smart and effective manner on the cuff. The plain skirt of the cloth has a shaped flounce of the velvet, trimmed with the tiny buttons. With this was worn a turban of fur, with a dashing white aigrette floating from the left side.
